Whenever I think back on my childhood, one image that comes to mind is Rosh Hashanah dinner. I can’t say I remember much about shul (other than feeling antsy in those stiff pews). However, I can remember the smell of our family Rosh Hashanah dinner like it was yesterday. The smells, the tastes, the feelings, the memories around this event, and so many others like it, leave me with a sense of admiration, security, even awe. And though I might have said a perfunctory “thank you” to my mom and grandma for preparing the meal, to my father and grandfather for going off to work every day to earn the resources to provide us with such a feast - I’m certain I didn’t truly appreciate what was given to me - nor should I, I was just a kid.

Today, as I am getting ready for the High Holy Days (and an Israel mission) I have that same sense of annual admiration and awe, but for different reasons. Now I’m not merely the recipient of those beautiful experiences come High Holy Days, but a provider. No, shamefully I don’t do a whole lot (other than show up and eat) at the pre-Rosh Hashanah dinner, now at my home. But I do have supreme gratitude towards Ariela for taking upon herself the role of matriarch and providing for our children and, God willing, some day, theirs. And though I, as the rabbi, am responsible for and elated by the duty of providing thousands of people with a High Holiday spiritual meal during the Yamim Noraim at CSH - nonetheless, I’m as much a recipient of this great gift as I am a contributor.

This isn’t false humility. This is that perfunctory “thank you” of my youth. You need to know, and I need to say, “thank you” to all of those who have worked so many hours to bring not only High Holidays to us, but who have worked tirelessly to make CSH what it is today. This past year alone we have seen a whole new lay leadership turnover, and in my ten years of being a rabbi I have never seen anything like this cadre of volunteers. Added to their already very full agenda they have faced unprecedented issues and new directions, and it is near miraculous that they have both found the time to do this work and that their spouses haven’t divorced them in the process.

There isn’t a day that goes by that I don’t talk with one of our co-Chairs (Andy Caplan and Melissa Kaplowitch). There isn’t a night that goes by when they, or one of the Board’s subcommittees like Cantor Search Committee, C.E.O. Search Committee, Finance Committee, Membership Committee and the list goes on isn’t up here, working well into the night. It is truly awesome and inspiring to see the kind of hours, and more importantly love and care, these volunteers put into this congregation, into your shul. The list of such individuals is simply too long to name, but suffice to say, you know who you are, we know who you are, I know who you are and most importantly HaShem knows who you are. It does not go unnoticed. It should not go unaddressed. It certainly doesn’t go unappreciated.

And because of these efforts of this (and previous) administrations of lay leadership, we have been able to retain the finest of professionals in Cantor Emil, Jed Filler, Marla Gay, Barri Stein, Marylou Barry, Richard Kelleher, Ann Navon, Leslie Sack, Debbie Leibowitz, Darren Bennedick, and an army of top-notch teachers, as well as the hardest working custodial staff probably since the time of the original Temple. The hours they have invested, the passion they have infused is, in no small measure, why CSH continues to thrive. Thank You.

And last, but not least, there is a set of thank yous. It reminds me of President Obama’s being awarded the Nobel Peace Prize before he’d actually done anything, like a “thanks in advance.” This, however, will be kudos not speculated upon but earned.

As you hopefully know, our professional staff and clergy team are now complete. We have been redefining Judaism and transforming Jewish community for six years now. However, we have been doing so while driving it forward in fourth gear. We’ve used all the resources we have (and then some), we’re not only out of space (another sermon for another day) we’re out of woman power, out of man power, which is why we hired Cantor Elana Rozenfeld to be our Cantor and join us as part of our clergy team. With Cantor
Elana at the wheel, alongside me and Cantor Emil, even greater things have already begun to take place - her skills, work ethic, charm and sweet neshama have already illuminated the way.

And now, our professional team is complete, with the hiring of our new C.E.O., Bob Krentzman. Even before he has punched the clock, Bob has been working behind the scenes to get the lay of the land, already connecting to many in the community and already offering us invaluable and wise guidance and direction as to how to move forward, how to take some tension off the engine as we finally shift into our fifth and final gear.

We welcome Cantor Elana and her husband Rafael. We welcome Bob and his wife Lily and son Brian. We thank them for choosing us, and we should be thankful that we chose them. We thank our lay leaders, our professional staff and all the great men and women who serve this congregation. You can be assured it will be another extraordinary and inspirational High Holy Day season and year at CSH. You can be certain that it happened in no small measure because of each and every one of them and so, so many more. Thank you and g’mar chatima tova - may they, may you, may all of us be sealed into the Book of Life this year.

Shana Tova

From the moment I was notified by Melissa and Andy that, after a very extensive and diligent search process, I was the choice of the Search Committee to fill the position of Chief Executive Officer of Congregation Shirat Hayam, I must have used words like “thrilled”, “overwhelmed”, “excited” and “amazed” over and over again.

After talking with Rabbi B, Cantors Rozenfeld and Berkovits, the CSH staff and the Co-Chairs, I realize that this position is not your typical Executive Director’s job in your typical synagogue!! My traditional business skills will be very valuable to CSH. I believe that new perspectives have the potential to open eyes to possibilities that will maximize our ability to deliver on our mission. An organization that is led by people who have lived its values over a long period of time, together with a qualified leader who understands and respects the mission and passion of the organization is a formula for success. While working in conjunction with the Co-Chairs and their Board of Directors, I plan to administer my responsibilities as a businessperson, knowing that our Rabbi and Cantors are our Spiritual Leaders and our Education and Pre-School Directors are responsible for the Jewish education of our children. This structure will create definition and expectation to each of us, from our Congregation. We will never lose sight of our synagogue as a place of Jewish learning, spiritual solace and enjoyment, but we also understand that we need to pay our bills!! I am “thrilled” to be in this position.

My wife Lily and our 12 year-old son Brian attended our first (of many to come) Shabbat Synaplex and Ruach Rally and we were “overwhelmed” by the structure, the flexibility, the enthusiasm and, most of all, the passion of the Congregation, young and old. It was amazing to watch and listen to the interaction between everyone while davening, discussing and then singing with the CSH Ruach Band!!! This was not your traditional Shabbat morning!!

As Jews worldwide prepare for Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur, the most holy of days in our religion, we also look towards starting a new year of faith, hope and anticipation.

We at Congregation Shirat Hayam are fortunate to have so many “new” and exciting things to look forward to in this upcoming year. We are fortunate to have a Rabbi and Cantor with whom we can identify and interact during times of joy as well as sorrow. With whom we look for support as well as advice. With whom we look forward to sharing exhilaration for many years to come. I am “excited” to be working with such inspirational people.

We are so fortunate to be an emerging Congregation filled with children eager with passion for learning and understanding the Jewish way of life, culture and its teachings. Your passion and enthusiasm is very contagious and invigorating and will certainly translate into leadership by example resulting in programming and progress to continue our growth. I am “amazed” at the zeal and commitment I have felt and heard from every CSH member I have met so far. It will be my and our staff’s promise to you to continue the model of “radical hospitality” to everyone who enters our doors.

So, from my family to yours, we wish you a very Happy, Healthy and Safe New Year. We hope it is a year of new joys and new triumphs within your own family, as well as your CSH family.

Please come by CSH and introduce yourself to me. I can’t wait to meet every member of our CSH family and for you to meet my wife, son and our dog Grace...we look forward to sharing many exciting times ahead at CSH!

Bob Krentzman
Andy Caplan and Melissa Kaplowitch, Board Co-chairs

In keeping with our theme of change, we would like to take this opportunity to highlight several exciting changes at Congregation Shirat Hayam. As you know, Cantor Elana Rozenfeld began her tenure at CSH on August 6, when she delighted congregants at her first Shabbat service. If you have not had a chance to experience Cantor Elana’s ruach and hear her fabulous voice, come to a Shabbat service. You are in for a treat! We look forward to having all of our Center for Jewish Education students rejoin services once Hebrew school is back in session.

Cantor Elana has been hard at work preparing for High Holy Day Services and developing innovative musical programming, including a choir for our children. If you have not had a chance to introduce yourself to Cantor Elana, stop by, say hello and practice Radical Hospitality. Please join us for our Open House Weekend, September 9 through 11, when Cantor Elana will be officially installed. A full schedule of open house events appears elsewhere in this Bulletin.

Next, we are pleased to announce the addition of Bob Krentzman to our management team in the newly-created position of Chief Executive Officer, effective September 1. Bob will serve as the organization’s senior professional responsible to oversee and manage all aspects of our operations. Bob will work together with the congregation’s board of directors, staff, clergy and congregants to develop and execute a financial model for the congregation that is as groundbreaking as our spiritual and programmatic gains. Bob will lead the development and execution of entrepreneurial initiatives focused on transforming the business of managing a synagogue to a sustainable model, while pursuing new revenue generating opportunities and business alliances within the community. Bob will temporarily use the Mo’Adon as his office until we find him a more suitable space.

Bob brings outstanding business experience to the CEO position at Shirat Hayam. Prior to coming to CSH, Bob was President and Owner of Chain Reaction Logistics, helping clients maximize sales and service levels, resulting in better efficiencies and increased profits. Bob also spent 15 years as Vice President of Operations and Chief Operating Officer at Sarah Michaels, where he led the operations to nearly $100 million in sales. Bob’s team was recognized as “Vendor of the Year” by Target (twice), Wal-Mart and CVS, and also received the award for “Supplier of the Decade” in their market for outstanding operational and customer service and branding.

Bob, his wife Lily, and their 12 year-old son Brian currently are members of Temple Chayai Shalom in Easton. Since joining in 2003, Bob served on the temple board of directors for seven years and as vice president for two of them. In July, 2010, he completed a two year term as co-president. Bob continues to serve as co-chair of their $2.5 million Building Expansion Committee, which has given him experience working on the capital campaign to fund the expansion project. Lily has served as Co-President of Chayai Shalom’s Sisterhood and is on the TCS Education Committee. Brian is studying to become a Bar Mitzvah in March of 2012.

Finally, we would like to welcome back our returning Preschool families and extend a warm welcome to all of our new families and staff members. Leslie Sack, our Preschool Director, has been working very hard over the summer to expand our Preschool program. With additions such as an infant room and extended hours offering full day child care, Leslie and her staff have created programming which will continue to enhance the mission of CSH, where we excel in creating Jewish educational programming for our youngest members. For more information on the Preschool, stop by and see Leslie.

The High Holidays are right around the corner. If you have not purchased your High Holy Day tickets, please contact Marylou in the office to do so. Remember that purchasing HHD tickets is a privilege of membership, so please make sure that your membership is in good standing. Please note that ALL tickets will be checked at the door this year. Be sure to present your tickets when you enter the building. We look forward to getting to know you further during the High Holy Days.

Happy, healthy new year from our families to yours,
Melissa and Andy

I still remember my first computer in 8th grade – called the vic20. It had 24k of ram and games and programming loaded from cassette tapes. I was amazed when my father brought home an IBM PC - with two floppy drives and 128k of onboard memory when I was in high school. There were hundreds of programs on one floppy – and you had to learn an actual language to use some of the programs. I helped him and learned about spreadsheets when he built an inventory program for his business (anyone remember 123?). Computers shrunk in size and increased in capacity at a furious rate - so that by the time I went to college – a few students on every floor had one. Four years later when I graduated, many more students had one.

Technology and computers were new – games, applications, spreadsheets, and the fledgling internet promised infinite possibilities, and it was thrilling to stand on the precipice staring into the future.

Shortly after graduating college, I started my career ‘officially’ in Jewish education working in my home synagogue as a teacher (I had been a substitute and madrich all through high school). They were using textbooks that 12 years earlier I had used, and the only computer was in the synagogue office. We were still using a mimeo machine (remember the smell of a fresh ‘copy’)?

I decided to attend Brandeis University to study Jewish education, and my fellow students and I were determined to bring Jewish education up to date. While deeply respecting our own mentors and teachers, we knew instinctively that in order to learn most effectively, a student has to learn in a context that makes sense to him/her.

But this is nothing new. In our uniquely American experience, it seems that Jewish education has lagged anywhere between five and twenty years behind secular education in theory, application and technique. Each new generation of Jewish educators work diligently to catch up, and over the past 10 years have made significant strides in closing the gap.

Some of the companies developing resources for Jewish Education are already on the technology bus. Behrman House Publishing, J Village (our web host), Torah Aura Productions, Darim Online, the USCJ, and other organizations are working to help educators create contextual connections between our texts and our learners.

When our kids speak through technology, so must we. Twitter, Facebook, blogs, foursquare, second life, skype, and texting occupy both their school and spare time, and we ignore their context at our peril.

We can’t wait for students to come to us. When we do, we are relegated to the fate of the dinosaurs. Our tradition is rich, enlightening, fulfilling, and absolutely relevant - but requires constant translation updates to keep it so.

Pirke Avot reminds us that we are not required to finish the work, but we are not permitted to leave it for others either. Our students fill our classrooms today. They cannot wait for the next generation of education professionals and neither can we!

The blending of all the parts of our lives together in a mashup of content and context is gaining momentum. We must work to continue to grow in knowledge and expertise - in content, context and delivery methods to be as effective as possible in our classrooms.

This year we expect to launch a new version of our website, and alongside of it – a new tool for community building and education management for religious schools called: e-kita (electronic classroom). When we launch in the fall, I hope you will join me in trying out the new technology that will help us keep in touch, share stories, and learn together!

L’shalom,
Jed
Dear CSH family,

As I write this, I am preparing for the CSH trip to Israel. When we return, I’ll post pictures on our website and will write about our experiences in next month’s Bulletin.

When I return, we will be completely focused on High Holy Day preparation. For me, the New Year is a time for reflection on the previous year and figuring out what I can do better in the coming year. This past year at CSH has been incredible. We continue to work at a frenetic pace all year-round, but it’s a pace that I welcome - even cherish. Just when I think we’ve maxed out our energy, something new and exciting comes along that raises the bar higher again. Last year, we were sailing at a pretty steady clip and then - along came Cantor Elana. Having had the opportunity to get to know her and hear her voice, I can tell you that you are in for a treat. Her sweet voice is matched only by the sweetness of her neshama. Cantor Elana's arrival means more programs, more planning, more... music! So, that was a wonderful addition to our team and we got to adjust for almost a month and then, just when you think it can’t get any better, we hire CEO Bob Krentzman! Bob’s business and synagogue experience makes him the perfect match for our congregational family. He hasn’t started officially yet, but boy, is he ever involved. He’s jumped right in and has reinvigorated us all as we refocus on the Shirat Hayam vision and mission.

I ask myself what we could have done better last year. I do have a list that I’m working on, but I ask you. How did we do? What can we do better? What do you enjoy the most? Your ideas, feedback and constructive criticism are always welcome.

I’m proud to be a part of this CSH team and excited to part of a congregation that embraces change. I look forward to sharing the upcoming year with all of you, and am excited to see what changes are in store for us in 5772.

My husband, Philip, our daughters, Allison and Rebecca, our dog Ollie and I wish you and your families a happy and sweet new year.

Shana tova,
Marla

Tuesday, September 13, at 7:30 pm
at Shirat Hayam

The Music of the High Holy Days
Cantor Elana Rozenfeld will be teaching us some new tunes that will be used on Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur. We will also discuss the meaning of some of the prayers we say. Be an active participant on the High Holy Days this year. Come get to know Cantor Elana. No prior knowledge of Hebrew required and you don’t even have to carry a tune!

Saturday, September 24, at 8:00 pm

S’lichot
S’lichot, a Hebrew word meaning “forgiveness,” refers to the special penitential prayers recited by Jews throughout the High Holy Days. Jews recite S’lichot beginning late at night on the Saturday before Rosh HaShanah and continue each morning on the days between the New Year and Yom Kippur.

Please join us as we continue our preparation of mind and spirit for the High Holy Days.

Benny Friedman: The Rise and Fall of Brandeis Football

The short-lived Brandeis football program was implemented to create the ethos of a university that was Jewish supported, yet American. Football great Benny Friedman served as the first coach and athletic director. The dynamic Friedman built an impressive football program, considering his dependence on scholar-athletes. The program’s success proved to be its ultimate downfall, due to some who feared that the continued growth of athletics would threaten the academic atmosphere.

ALTERNATIVE SERVICE INFORMATION FOR SEPTEMBER

Early Mystic Minyan 8:30 am
As it says in the Mishnah, the early mystics would gather together and sit for an hour before even attempting to formally engage in prayer. So too at CSH we offer the Early Mystic Minyan as an option for practitioners of meditation to come and sit as we begin to open up the space of our Chapel on Shabbat and of our hearts in the early quiet hours before the crowds arrive. There will be minimal, if any, instruction for the first fifteen minutes. It is a time to gather one’s self and one’s thoughts together through individual prayer without words.

Renewal Minyan - 8:45 - 9:50 am
The Renewal Minyan is an attempted synthesis of kavanah – the traditional structure of tefilah (Jewish prayers) with kavanah – spiritual depth within the prayer itself. During the Renewal Minyan we are committed to traversing the Shabbat morning tefilot structure (Birkot HaShachar, P’sukei D’Zimrah, Shachrit), but not necessarily davening (praying) each and every prayer along the way. Our aim, again, is to strike a balance between breadth and depth, and within a one hour period that is a fine balance, to be sure.

Torah Yoga 10:00 am
A full-body Shabbat experience. Torah yoga incorporates yoga practice with a Shabbat theme.

Nosh and Drash - 10:00 am
Grab a cup of coffee and nosh at the Boker Tov Café, and join the guest rabbi or scholar for a Torah-based Shabbat learning experience.

Tzofim - on Limud Shabbat days - for CHA students: Designed as an Israel-based learning and experiential program, Tzofim will meet on Shabbat from 10:00 - 12:00. Students will participate in a variety of activities and subject areas, including Ulpan (spoken Hebrew), Israeli culture, T’filah (prayer), and modern Israeli music and art.

Limud Shabbat with Tzofim returns on September 10 at 9:00 am!
Don’t forget to send in your CJE registration in advance.

CSH Minyannaires

Please consider helping to make a minyan - once a week, once a month - whenever you can. Those needing a minyan to say kaddish would greatly appreciate it.

The Chuck Sagan Memorial Golf Classic was a huge success! Even though the weather was not ideal, the sense of camaraderie couldn’t have been better. It was a perfect venue to honor a man who loved to golf and was very passionate about his synagogue.

Chesed Committee
Karynn Needel and Beth Hoffman, Co-chairs

The Chesed Committee has been very busy providing meals, rides, visits and general emotional support to the congregation, as needed. The committee’s mission is to help congregants and their families in times of crisis. They are the first responders, there to do triage until other “sources” are notified and become available.

If you want to become a part of this GREAT committee, please let us know. There is a little something for everyone to do within the Chesed Committee!

Please contact us if you know of someone in need. We can only help those that we know about.
Thank you!
