Transitions

Transition is a word that is loaded with meaning - positive and negative. Transitions tend to be exciting, filled with possibility and potential. Equally, however, transitions are by definition fraught with uncertainty, doubt and fear.

The HaLevis are in a time of massive transition. CSH, however, is equally going through massive transitions as well; in the process of searching not just for a rabbi, but for an Executive Director and a Preschool Director as well. Each one of these transitions is unto itself enormous; however, one upon another makes it exhausting, overwhelming and easy to feel a sense of doubt, even panic, that the transitions will not go well.

And yet, if Jewish history teaches us anything it is that transitions are not only a part of life but quite often the best part of life, certainly some of the most fertile times in life. The massive moments of challenge in our people’s history are also moments of the greatest creativity, transformation and re-invigoration too.

What I have seen over the past few months here, with lay leaders rising up to take on three separate searches, is simply staggering. The sheer amount of meetings alone (sorry rabbinic search committee) is a job unto itself. Add to it their due diligence, vision, optimism and passion, and you can rest assured that these respective teams will bring to you the best possible candidates in their fields.

And the quality and quantity of candidates, particularly in the rabbinate, gives me hope that Judaism, particularly Conservative Judaism, is at the beginning of a Renaissance, the kind they haven’t known in at least a generation.

So, yes, transitions are never easy and we ain’t on the other side of this one (mine or yours) yet. However, as the Bedouins say, “have faith in God and tie up your camels.” I, along with the respective search committees are busy tying up the camels as best we are able. After that we all just have to have faith that God will do the rest and it will all work out.

So tie up the camels. Have faith. This too will all work out.

Parenting

When I gave birth to my son, Ariel, something in me changed. I experienced a love that I did not know was possible, and all of a sudden, there was something (or someone) more important than anything else in the world.

I began to take stock of my life and my responsibility as a parent. When I come home from work after my evening tutoring sessions, I see how happy Ariel is to spend an hour with me before he goes to sleep, and how sad he is when he does not see me because I had worked late the night before. As I reflected upon my parental responsibility, I vowed that I would make it my mission to be the best mother I could possibly be, while also working full-time and passionately as a cantor.

Like any parents, Raphael and I try to give Ariel the best of what we have to offer: We feed him healthy food; we play with him as much as we can (we have great dance parties before bedtime!), and Raphael and I play music with him often, even though giving him the life and attention he deserves is sometimes difficult for two full-time working parents.

Our need to give Ariel the best start possible extends also to our Judaism. I made it a priority this year to go home on Friday afternoon before Shabbat to prepare dinner and light the candles. (In the past, I worked straight through to services and only managed to light candles in the summer when Shabbat comes in late.) This decision was not only for my son, but for me as well. How can a cantor, who is so passionate about Judaism, give up one of the key mitzvot of Shabbat? And I can already see how this decision has impacted our son. Currently, Ariel’s favorite activity is to stand by the table that holds my Shabbat candles. He takes my lighter, (with a child lock, of course) and pretends to light candles. Then, 21-month old Ariel always punctuates the pretend candle lighting ritual with a resounding “AMEN!” He does this several times a day. If I had continued to stay in the shul through services on Friday night, and not light candles, Ariel would not have developed such a love of Shabbat ritual.

As a cantor, and an observant Jew, I have a sense of how to welcome Jewish ritual and spirituality into my life, and my son’s life, but even I can use guidance. Therefore, I am delighted to announce that, in the spring, we will be bringing to the North Shore an incredible program through Hebrew College, called “Parenting Through a Jewish Lens.” If you know parents in the area who want to give their kids the gift of exposure to Jewish tradition, ritual and spirituality, please let them know about this class. Please refer to the class description below. Happy parenting!

A Jewish Parenting Class for Everyone

Parenting Through a Jewish Lens (PTJL) is a parenting program that explores core values through Jewish texts and wisdom. The class touches on numerous parenting issues including how to incorporate daily rituals, how to parent during a loss, how to approach tzedakah or charity as a family, how to connect to a larger Jewish community, and so much more. PTJL will be coming to the North Shore in April, 2015.

Taught by knowledgeable, creative and skilled instructors, PTJL reaches a diverse background of participants ranging from Orthodox, Conservative or Reform to Jewish by choice and those of other faiths. The instructors are skilled at getting to know the participants on a personal level and tailoring lessons to meet their needs and concerns. As one parent stated, “Our instructor brings to each session incredible depth of knowledge, broad-minded perspectives, thoughtfulness, and experience as a parent.”

Parenting Through a Jewish Lens is a joint program of Hebrew College and Combined Jewish Philanthropies Commission on Jewish Life and Learning.

Classes are held throughout the Greater Boston area and the North Shore. For a complete listing of sites, times and instructors, or to register, visit: www.hebrewcollege.edu/parenting.

“PTJL has created a place for me to think through critical matters that get lost in the day to day. It has opened conversations between me and my spouse and has given me access to ideas and texts I hope to pursue long after the class ends.” To begin your journey or for more information, please contact Marcy Leiman at 617-559-8734.

The next two pages contain the exciting information about the Shirat Hayam trip to Eastern Europe in October of 2015. I hope you’ll consider joining us. It’s an amazing experience. I have never been to Prague and Budapest, but I have been to Warsaw and Krakow. It is a life-changing trip. We need a minimum of 20 people to make the trip happen. Many of you have already expressed an interest, so I’m optimistic. This trip is open to everyone, so ask your friends! There is an additional $100.00 administrative fee for non-CSH members. Please don’t hesitate to contact me if you have any questions about the trip.

Things are a little more quiet this time of year, but that’s not a bad thing. The snowbirds are enjoying their beautiful weather and we, hardy-stock folks, are embracing the fact that we live in an area where the weather can change on a moment’s notice. Interesting, don’t you think? That we live in New England, but so many of us have trouble adapting to change. If it’s snowing, we put on boots; raining, we carry an umbrella; cold, we wear scarves and gloves and fuzzy hats! So why do you think it is, that when our routines change, we have so much trouble? I’m not a tremendous scholar and don’t have any profound answers, but I can speculate that we like the routine so we can have some control.

I would like to present a challenge to you. Let’s weather this storm of change and create some new routines together.

The Wave
Early Mystic Minyan - 8:30 am weekly

As it says in the Mishnah, the early mystics would gather together and sit for an hour before even attempting to formally engage in prayer. So too at CSH we offer the Early Mystic Minyan as an option for practitioners of meditation to come and sit as we begin to open up the space of our Sanctuary on Shabbat and of our hearts in the early quiet hours before the crowds arrive. There will be minimal, if any, instruction for the first fifteen minutes. It is a time to gather one’s self and one’s thoughts together through individual prayer without words.

Renewal Minyan - 8:45 - 9:50 am weekly

The Renewal Minyan is an attempted synthesis of keva – the traditional structure of tefillah (Jewish prayers) with kavanah – spiritual depth within the prayer itself. During the Renewal Minyan we are committed to traversing the Shabbat morning tefillot structure (Birkot HaShachar, P’seukeyi D’Zimrah, Shachrit), but not necessarily davening (praying) each and every prayer along the way. Our aim, again, is to strike a balance between breadth and depth, and within a one hour period that is a fine balance, to be sure.

Living Minyan: Traditional Prayers and Learning - 9:00 am weekly

The great thing about being Jewish is to be part of a tradition that is thousands of years old! But if you can’t read Hebrew, don’t know the words, or maybe can’t carry a tune, tradition can feel a little daunting. Come and join Jan Brodie and friends in a safe, welcoming space to discover the beauty of traditional Jewish liturgy, prayer and song in a user-friendly format.

Yoga Minyan - 10:00 am weekly

A full-body Shabbat experience. Yoga Minyan incorporates yoga practice with a Shabbat theme.

Nosh and Drash - 10:00 am weekly

Grab a cup of coffee and a nosh at the Boker Tov Café, and join the guest rabbi or scholar for a Torah-based Shabbat learning experience.

Chesed Committee
Nancy Sarles, Chair

Shalom,

Please join our Chesed Committee to assist our congregation members at times, both urgent and on-going, with the generous energy of our congregation.

Chesed is our opportunity to give and receive a helping hand. Please volunteer for as little as a few hours a year to care for the needs of our members.

Chesed ‘Reach Out’ program is to assist in emergency situations with meals, rides, child care, or Shiva. Chesed ‘Reach In’ program is to address our members’ more on-going needs such as a phone call, a visit, a meal, a ride to services, a new member buddy, new parent outreach, or simply being in touch and lending a helping hand.

I invite you to email me with your name, email address and phone number where can you be called on to help.

As a Chesed Committee volunteer, there are no meetings. All communication is by email and phone, when needed.

Please call CSH if you have any needs we can help with.

With lovingkindness,

Brotherhood

Brian Cohen, President

Those who know us, know well that our Brotherhood is a fun group. We like to gather, eat, enjoy each other’s company, and when we can, we work to improve our shul and our community. We are always looking for our next opportunity to have a good time and to strengthen the bonds amongst the men of our congregation.

December was a great month. We supported our brethren over at Temple ner Tamid in Peabody, by participating in their Poker Tournament. I am proud to say that our own Gary Insuik came in 2nd place!

We held an old-fashioned “Paid-up” breakfast. We stuffed our faces full of lox, whitefish, assorted blintzes, bagels, eggs, fresh fruit, yogurt, salad… you get the idea; we had more than enough food! The feedback was so positive that we will definitely be having another breakfast soon. The committee is open to any and all ideas.

Special thanks to Max Sontz and to all those who volunteered to deliver meals on Christmas day for Greater Lynn Senior Services. This is a wonderful mitzvah that we have been performing for well over a dozen years now.

Thank you, Max, for keeping this tradition going strong.

Save the date -- 02/01 (Sunday Morning) -- World Wide Wrap! Come participate as shuls from all around the world will be using this same day to teach the ancient tradition of wrapping Tefillin. Extra Tefillin will be provided if you do not already have your own. If you do have a spare set, please bring it with you. This will be incorporated into the morning Minyan which starts at 9:00. Breakfast to be sponsored by the Brotherhood.

Please watch your emails for future announcements. We still like to gather to watch the occasional sporting event. In the past, this has included Monday Night Football, NCAA Football Championships, the Final Four Basketball Tournament, etc… We will be doing so again. If you would like to help run one of these events, please do not hesitate to contact me. We look forward to noshing with you soon.

L’chaim!

Rabbi Search Update

The Rabbi Search Committee has been very busy processing all the resumes we have received from very qualified candidates. Skype interviews will be scheduled with the committee. We will provide you with an update when we have viable candidates.

If you have any questions, please contact Diane Levin and Alan Sidman, Rabbi Search Co-chairs, at: rabbisearch@shirathayam.org. They are both here most Shabbat mornings and welcome your feedback in person as well.

Thank you.
