Storytelling

It was my penultimate Shabbat at Sha’are Shalom, the congregation that I’d served for 7 years. At Kiddush, a member who had hosted my family for Rosh Hashanah dinner was saying goodbye, when I turned around to see tears streaming down the face of his fourteen-year-old son.

Adults say, “Goodbye. We’ll miss you,” a parting exchange from the safe space of the head, rather than the emotional, raw place of the heart. In those sobs I recognized the depth of loss people may feel at the departure of their rabbi.

I imagine that it’s no different at Shirat Hayam. You, too, must be experiencing, loss and heartache. Caught between the no longer and the not yet, this liminal space exacerbates our anguish.

In the Torah, when a leader dies, the people mourn for 30 days. It is a practical response, acknowledging the loss while affirming that life goes on. The Torah’s model of healing is basically passive. It relies upon the passage of time to heal the soul’s pain.

A second, more active Torah-based approach to life transitions can be inferred from the Book of Deuteronomy, which we begin July 25. Deuteronomy, the final book of the Torah, means “repetition of the Torah” (Hebrew: mishneh Torah). To prepare the Israelites for a new leader, conquering the land of Israel, and living there in relationship with G-d, Moses first selectively retells the history of the people and then repeats Israel’s purpose.

Following Moses’s example, as we enter into a sacred partnership together, we can accelerate the transformation of a relationship that is “not yet” into one that is “now,” by telling our personal histories and dreams. Whether we are Jews or gentile spouses in a Jewish household, I would be honored if we shared our stories of those defining Jewish moments in our lives. Over the next few months, Marla Gay and many volunteers will be organizing and hosting a number of “meet and greets” and other “get to know” events. I look forward to hearing your story, and I’m eager to share mine.

Moses dies at the end of Deuteronomy. The Jewish story continues with Joshua who takes over the mantle of leadership from Moses. Hashem reminds Joshua of Israel’s purpose to settle the Promised Land: “Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, cross over the Jordan, you, and all this people, to the land which I give to them, to the people Israel.” Despite the leadership transition, the Israelites have a continuity of purpose.

In a very, very small way, we may liken our journey together to that of Joshua and the Israelites. Through a purposeful telling of personal narratives and an exploration of common goals and purposes, we will forge our future together.

Peace and blessing,

Rabbi Michael

Me: Ariel, Ima has a baby in her belly.
Ariel: I wanna go play bahketaball (translation: basketball)

(2 months later)

Me: Ariel, would you like to read a book with Ima? How about “I’m Going to be a Big Brother”
Ariel: No.

Thankfully, when I let the members of Congregation Shirat Hayam know that I was pregnant with my second child, I received a much warmer response than I did from my two-year-old.

It is July, and I am wrapping up my work here for a little while, awaiting the birth of my daughter. God-willing, everything will go well. While I am in the process of preparing to go on maternity leave just as Rabbi B makes aliyah with his family, and Rabbi Ragozin settles here in Swampscott with his family, all I can say is, “Oy!” The timing of these three events might be a bit scary, but I am reminded that we are a community made up of many people, not just of clergy, all of whom are invested in the growth and well-being of Congregation Shirat Hayam.

In that spirit, I have collected and coordinated volunteers (as well as some paid professionals) to take on all of my various roles here. I am so grateful and inspired to be part of such a generous community in which people step up. Thank you so much, you who have already volunteered your time so that I can focus on my newborn to give her a good start in life.

My heartfelt gratitude goes out to the following CSH members who have already volunteered to read Torah, haftarah, lead services, gabbai, coordinate/support other volunteers, roll Sifrei Torah, run rehearsals, etc....: Diane Levin, Howie Abrams, Alan Sidman, Murray Goodman, Joel Cohen, Joan Rich, Sandy Levy, Natalie White, Ann Segal, Bette Shoreman, Mimi Oliver, Jan Brodie, Leah Jacobson, Andrea Katz, Nancy Miller, Kara Bailen, the Ruach Rally Band (including: Jason Stark, James Uzdarwin, Doug Swaffield, George Schwartz, Janna Schwartz, Julia Bobkoff, Philip Gay, and special thanks to Jay Mahler for coordinating), and Alan Resnic.*

*Please forgive me if I forgot anyone on this list.

I hope that this high level of participation becomes the trend here at CSH. It gives me no greater pleasure than to see our congregation filled with active volunteers and community members. Please keep reading Torah, haftarah, davening, singing, dancing, and taking on leadership roles.

"It takes a village" to run a congregation.

I wish everyone a restful summer, and I look forward to seeing you all on the High Holy Days!

L'Shalom,

Cantor Elana
I expect that most every new synagogue president is around this time thinking and writing about how to encourage meaningful involvement and engagement of congregants in the day-to-day life of the organization. I am no different—I have been thinking for a long time how we can make this happen and want to take this opportunity to spell out the importance of getting this message across to the number of you who have grown to love and appreciate what Congregation Shirat Hayam has become.

I should mention that one of the early lessons in my tenure has been to REALLY get to know more about what it takes to make our organization function and to be impressed even more by the dedication and efforts of so many of our key staff who work so diligently and professionally to put all the many pieces together.

I ask myself whether there is room and a way for our congregants to get more “skin in the game” feeling that in order to build a sustainable organization, we cannot just sit back and watch our professional staff work and let ourselves be treated to the fruits of their labors. As a way to address this I want to list all the committees (and their chairs) that have either been in place or recently put in place to acknowledge those who have agreed to step up and serve, and to invite those of you who understand my message and are looking for a place to build your own connection to CSH to follow that impulse.

Standing committees include: Preschool (Renee Sidman), Hebrew School (Jerry Rosen), Chessed (Nancy Sarles), Abatement (Ellen Alexander), Budget and Finance (Jason Levine), Ritual (Alan Sidman), Adult Education (Wayne Trebbin), Board Leadership and Governance (Melissa Kaplowitch), Brotherhood (Brian Cohen), Garden (Jill Goodman), House (Sheldon Frisch), Endowment (David Brodsky), and Family Life (Alex Shube and Jessica Heller).

I can guarantee you that there is work to be done and the reward from helping to sustain and grow our enterprise is significant. I encourage each of you to ask yourselves where your talent and interest lies, encourage you to contact the appropriate chairs or staff and welcome your comments, input and support.

Have a wonderful and restful summer,

Howie
A huge todah rabah to everyone who participated in the HaLevi Sendoff event, especially the anonymous underwriters and the committee: Rachelle Dubow, Leslie Ogan, Wendy Polins, Nancy Sarles, Michele Tamaren, Robin Yanetti, and amazing co-chairs, Amanda Clayman and Karen Rosenberg. Here are a few pictures in case you missed it. Thank you to Anna Levenberg for taking the pictures!!

CONCERT | Yidstock 2015: The Festival of New Yiddish Music at noon

Klezperanto

This event is part of YIDSTOCK 2015: A Yidstock favorite, Klezperanto returns with its all-star lineup led by the Pioneer Valley's own Ilene Stahl, one of the world's top klezmer clarinetists and a longtime member of the Klezmer Conservatory Band. With solid klezmer roots, spectacular technical virtuosity, and a wry sense of humor, Klezperanto re-grooves traditional klezmer and Mediterranean melodies, rips up Romanian surf tunes, covers cop-show themes and cumbias, slays a few standards, and burnishes it all to a funky finish.

TALK | A "Nice Jewish Boy," with Socalled at 1:30 pm

This event is part of YIDSTOCK 2015: Rapper, composer, producer, and pianist Socalled has been making records and touring the world for more than a decade and has worked with a list of collaborators that knows no generational, social, cultural or religious boundaries. He'll talk about how he draws on these diverse influences to create his distinctive, cutting-edge sound.

Early Mystic Minyan - 8:30 am weekly

As it says in the Mishnah, the early mystics would gather together and sit for an hour before even attempting to formally engage in prayer. So too at CSH we offer the Early Mystic Minyan as an option for practitioners of meditation to come and sit as we begin to open up the space of our Sanctuary on Shabbat and of our hearts in the early quiet hours before the crowds arrive. There will be minimal, if any, instruction for the first fifteen minutes. It is a time to gather one’s self and one’s thoughts together through individual prayer without words.

Renewal Minyan - 8:45 - 9:50 am weekly

The Renewal Minyan is an attempted synthesis of keva – the traditional structure of tefillah (Jewish prayers) with kavanah – spiritual depth within the prayer itself. During the Renewal Minyan we are committed to traversing the Shabbat morning tefillot structure (Birkot HaShachar, P’seukei D’Zimrah, Shachrit), but not necessarily davening (praying) each and every prayer along the way. Our aim, again, is to strike a balance between breadth and depth, and within a one-hour period that is a fine balance, to be sure.

Traditional Minyan: Traditional Prayers 9:00 am weekly

The great thing about being Jewish is to be part of a tradition that is thousands of years old! But if you can’t read Hebrew, don’t know the words, or maybe can’t carry a tune, tradition can feel a little daunting. Come and join us in a safe, welcoming space to discover the beauty of traditional Jewish liturgy, prayer and song in a user-friendly format.

Yoga Minyan - Resumes August 29

A full-body Shabbat experience. Yoga Minyan incorporates yoga practice with a Shabbat theme.

Nosh & Drash - Resumes August 29

Chesed Committee
Nancy Sarles, Chair

Shalom,

Please join our Chesed Committee to assist our congregation members at times, both urgent and ongoing, with the generous energy of our congregation.

Chesed is our opportunity to give and receive a helping hand. Please volunteer for as little as a few hours a year to care for the needs of our members.

Chesed “Reach Out” program is to assist in emergency situations with meals, rides, child care, or Shiva. Chesed “Reach In” program is to address our members’ more ongoing needs such as a phone call, a visit, a meal, a ride to services, a new member buddy, new parent outreach, or simply being in touch and lending a helping hand.

I invite you to email me with your name, email address, and phone number where you can be called on to help.

As a Chesed Committee volunteer, there are no meetings. All communications are by email and phone, when needed.

Please call CSH if you have any needs we can help with.

With lovingkindness,
Nancy Sheena Sarles

Brotherhood

Brian Cohen, President

Brotherhood is looking forward to the summer. We held our annual Burt and Becky Shepard Scholarship Awards Breakfast, and we are very proud to announce that we awarded over $3,000 to our graduating high school seniors that are going off to college. This year's recipients are Elizabeth Finer, Ariel Freidman, Andrew Jacobson, Jake Kramer, Karli Kovner, Corey Stein, Alex Taglieri, and Gabrielle Tucker.

Congratulations to the Class of 2015!

Additionally, Mason Sagan and Brittney Titus were awarded the Rabbi Edgar and Yvonne Weinsberg award.

June also saw another Texas Hold’em poker tournament. This event, held just a few times over the year, is one of our primary fundraisers, with the proceeds going to our Burt and Becky Scholarship Fund. The food is always great (thanks to Gary Insuik!), and the evening is filled with competitive fun. The Brotherhoods from our neighbors, Temple Ner Tamid in Peabody, and Temple B’Nai Abraham in Beverly, come out to support this event and we in turn look forward to attending their next tournament as well.

Enjoy the summer!
